Address Supporting Organization Review Consultation

John Curran

ARIN President and CEO

ASO Review Consultation

- The most recent ASO Review concluded with 18 recommendations, which the NRO has resolved to accept. The first 17 recommendations are well defined and implementation is underway.
- The 18th recommendation of the Report is that “The NRO should initiate a public consultation, involving the five RIR communities, to determine the future structure of the ASO”. The NRO EC has concluded to accept that recommendation and has hereby launched a consultation on the issues identified in the ASO Review Report.

ASO Review Consultation

The scope of this consultation includes the structural implications of issues identified by the ASO Review, including but not limited to:

- Any updates and adjustments identified as required for ASO-related documents
- Any procedural clarifications and adjustments identified
- Reported confusion of roles between ASO and NRO, and their components
- Perceived complexity of relationships among NRO, ASO and ICANN
- Relevance and cost to the RIRs of various ICANN engagement activities

ASO Review Consultation

The NRO EC is looking to specific answer to the following questions:

- What adjustments, if any, should be made in order to address the issues described above?
- Should adjustments be limited to NRO MoU, ASO MoU, and/or ICANN Bylaws?
- Over what timeframes should these adjustments be developed and implemented?
- What strategic aspects should we pay attention to when considering these adjustments?

ASO Review Consultation – ARIN Status

- On 1 February 2018, ARIN initiated a community consultation on the structural issues identified in the 2018 ASO Review Report - https://www.arin.net/participate/acsp/community_consult/02-01-2018_aso.html
- The consultation closes on 30 April 2018
- Presently there have been only two comments made – both to the effect that the ASO is unnecessary, as the primary role of the ASO - forwarding global policy proposals for ratification to the ICANN Board - is an extremely rare occurrence.
